Foreword from the Dean of Faculty of Economics

University of Indonesia

Dear students,

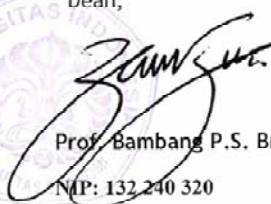

The world is entering the era of the food and oil crises. The supply of food and energy began to deplete significantly. While the demand of those commodities are increasing over time due to the rapid population growth in this world. The supply can no longer satisfy the needs of food and oil. Asia has to unite its power in order to solve this problem of food and oil crises.

I hope that 6th Economix will set off the first step to establish a better understanding for young generation of Asia about food and oil crises. This conference is held with the purpose of creating a comprehension of significant role of young generation against food and oil crises. Thus, this will be the contribution from students for Asia's sustainable development.

As the dean of Faculty of Economics University of Indonesia, it is my honor to host all of you here to participate in The 6th Economix student conference. I wish you a pleasant time and the best of luck.

Sincerely

Dean,

Prof. Bambang P.S. Brodjonegoro, PhD
